1. Purpose

The Purpose of this Terms of Use Policy is to outline the terms and conditions governing the use of educational resources, services, and content provided by ITAC (Institute of Teacher Aide Courses). This policy applies to all individuals who access and utilise our resources, including but not limited to our website, learner guides, webinars, verbal and written communications, blogs, articles, and all other course materials whether public or restricted.

2. Scope

This policy applies to all users of ITAC educational resources and services, including employees, students, and visitors who engage with our content and website.

3. Use of Materials

ITAC materials are intended exclusively for personal and educational purposes. Users must not construe the provided materials as medical, professional, or expert advice and must only use them for tasks generally required by teacher's aides in their working environment and under supervision of a qualified and registered teacher.

4. Reliability and Accuracy

While ITAC strives to provide accurate, up-to-date, and reliable information, we do not guarantee the accuracy or reliability of our content. Users acknowledge that their reliance on any materials provided by ITAC is at their sole risk.

5. Expert Advice and Liability

Users requiring expert or professional advice or facing a risk of injury, death, or property damage must seek independent advice. ITAC and all associated parties shall not be liable for any damages arising from the use of our services, materials, or products. ITAC accepts no responsibility for any errors, omissions, or results obtained from using this information.

6. Updates and Improvements

ITAC reserves the right to make improvements, corrections, or changes to any portion of the provided materials at its sole discretion and without any obligation or notification.

7. Third-Party Resources

ITAC materials may include links to third-party resources. These are provided for general information purposes only and do not imply ITAC endorsement. Users are responsible for their use of these third-party sources, and ITAC shall not be liable for any damages resulting from their use.

8. Compliance and Acceptance

By accessing and using ITAC's resources, users agree to be bound by this policy. Non-compliance or disagreement with this policy must result in refraining from using ITAC resources.

9. Modification and Review

ITAC reserves the right to update or modify this policy at any time without prior notice to ensure ongoing compliance with relevant legislation and the evolving needs of the business. The policy will be reviewed periodically to maintain its relevance and efficacy.
